

Weekly Goal 3a: Survey Distribution

A short list of channels where the survey was distributed, in line with the sampling strategy.

Based on our strategy, we chose to distribute our survey mostly in social media groups and (protest) channels. The most effective method is targeting organized protest groups and contacting people we know who were involved with protests, as these communities are directly affected and likely to provide valuable insights. Additionally, university groups offer an excellent avenue to distribution, as they often consist of politically aware students and young activists who frequently engage in protests.

- A. To give a full overview, the set of groups/channels is added to six movements that will be targeted:
- a) Environmental protests
  - b) Pro Palestinian
  - c) Anti-education budget cuts
  - d) Anti-racism
  - e) Anti-immigration
  - f) Pro-Israeli
  - g) *Additional

Additional:

-UVA CLASS OF 2027 (GROUP 2) : Sending the survey in general groups, but mentioning how the survey is meant for people with protesting experience.

-CONTACTS OF PEOPLE WHO HAVE PROTEST EXPERIENCES: Sending the survey to all of our contacts who mentioned having any protest experience.

B. Visiting protests to target our specific group

We are also focusing on identifying ongoing and upcoming demonstrations to target the people who participate in those protests. By engaging with protest organizers, we aim to reach participants who can provide authentic and diverse insights. This targeted approach allows us to build a meaningful dialogue with protesters and contribute valuable findings to this critical issue. At this moment, we are aiming to find these upcoming protests using method A (distributing in groups/channels).
